On the east coast of Thailand, 179 kilometres from Bangkok, modest beaches dotted around Rayong province are tranquil paradises for sea lovers who wish for hideaway places near to the capital. Months of monsoon allow lush forest as well as fruit orchards to cool down from the heat of the day, and give produce during May of each year. So fruit lovers always travel here for various tasty fresh tropical fruits, particularly durian, rambutan and mangosteen. After the end of the monsoon season in late October, the crystal clear water of Rayong along its hundred kilometre-long coast embraces to welcome all visitors.

ATTRACTIONS

Amphoe Mueang Rayong

The Shrine of King Taksin the Great (ศาลสมเด็จพระเจ้าตากสิน) Located in Wat Lum Mahachai Chumphon, Taksin Road, with a huge tree of 300 years old at the front. Folklore says that King Taksin the Great tied his elephant to the tree while leading the troops to Chanthaburi for retrieving the Kingdom of Siam from Burmese occupation. The shrine houses a statue of King Taksin the Great.

How to get there : From Mueang distirct, take Sukhumvit Road for 200 metres and turn right at the Taksin intersection into Taksin Maharat Road.

Wat Khot Thimtharam (วัดโขดทิมธาราม) Built around 1464, which dates back to the end of the Ayutthaya period, by the Governor of Rayong named Thim, this temple is located at Tambon Tha Pradu. The ubosot features mural paintings and the much revered Luangpho Khao. A Celebration is held annually during 13-15 April.

Wat Pa Pradu (วัดป่าประดู่) Located on Sukhumvit Road in Mueang municipality, this ancient temple dates back to the Ayutthaya period. The temple was honoured as a royal temple in the year 1990. The wihan houses a large reclining Buddha image, 11.95 metres long and 3.60 metres High. Unusually, the reclining Buddha image lies on its left-hand side. The image was first built outdoor and the Wihan was built later in 1981. The public can come to pay homage at this temple daily during 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

How to get there : The temple is accessible by two routes. The first route: From Mueang district, take Sukhumvit Road via Rayong Hospital and Wat Pa Pradu School, then turn left into Pa Pradu Road to reach the temple. The second route: From Highway 36, bypass road, turn right to Chantha Udom Road at Ko Loi Intersection. Through Mueang district, turn right into Sukhumvit Road and follow the first route to the temple.

City Pillar Shrine (ศาลหลักเมือง) Located on Lak Mueang Road, this shrine was originally built of wood. Then it was reconstructed with brick and cement to resemble a Chinese shrine. The old city pillar was formerly in front of the shrine. On 4 November, 1992 , a new one was set up sheltered by a mondop with 4 porches. A celebration is held annually during the Songkran festival.

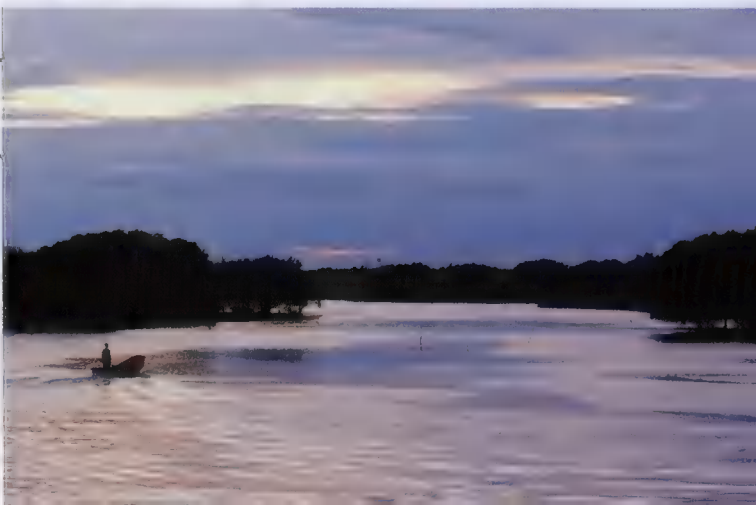

Wat Ban Don Shadow Play Museum (พิพิธภัณฑ์หนังใหญ่วัดบ้านดอน) The museum is located in Wat Ban Don, exhibiting a hundred Nang Yai shadow play characters. The Shadow Play character, or Nang Yai, is a large piece of leather carved and painted into different characters. Aged over 200 years, these characters were brought from Phatthalung in 1988. For the Nang Yai performance, please contact 5 days in advance. Within the temple, a Thai massage service organized by the Thai Massage Conservation Group is available. For more details, Tel. 0 3862 0127, 08 9401 2012. To get there, travel via Highway No.36 (bypass), turn left at Ko Kloi Intersection, and proceed 500 metres further. At the next intersection, take a right turn for another 500 metres.

Phra Chedi Klang Nam (พระเจดีย์กลางน้ำ) In the middle of the Rayong River, two kilometres south of downtown near the mouth of the river, is located a pagoda on an island. This pagoda erected on an islet was built in 1873. It is a landmark for the crew to indicate that they are reaching Rayong province. On the fullmoon day of the twelfth lunar month, a celebration will be held to change the robe covering the pagoda. Boat races and the Loi Krathong Festival will be celebrated here.

Si Mueang Park (สวนศรีเมือง) Called Ko Klang by the people of Rayong, this park totalling an area of 70 rai is located behind the city hall. This place was once used for the execution of prisoners and now it has been rebuilt as a park for people to enjoy. At the front of the park is a famous Buddha image of Rayong, Phra Phuttha Angkhirot.

Hat Laem Charoen (หาดแหลมเจริญ) Near the mouth of the Rayong River, five kilometres south of downtown, is the nearest beach from Rayong. Tourists love to enjoy the sea and seafood for dinner at Laem Charoen Beach, which is also a famous place for its fish sauce.

Hat Laem Charoen

Hat Mae Ramphueng

Hat Saeng Chan (หาดแสงจันทร์) Some seven kilometres from Rayong town, connecting to Laem Charoen Beach, the Saeng Chan Beach is a nice sandy beach where tourists can enjoy swimming and dining. Lots of restaurants are available for selection.
